ATLANTIC PLANT BEING EXTENDED

Heavy Crude Shipments Underway On Neches

150 TANK CARS DAILY

Road From Plant To River Is Nearly Completed

Increased construction activities at the Atlantic Refining company plant, north of Port Arthur is being reported today through business circles.

To what extent this construction work will go is not known nor will local plant officials say. It is known, however, that increased storage is being planned because of the vast amount of crude being shipped in to the Atlantic company from their holdings in the Stacker fields and north of this field where the Atlantic also has considerable holdings.

Build More Tanks.

The Atlantic now has about six tanks in their farm and it is estimated that many more will soon be under construction. In support of this it is pointed out that the Atlantic is handling about 150 tank cars a day, working 24 hour shifts.

The loading racks can accommodate approximately 50 tank cars and in order to care for their increased crude shipments it can be seen that additional storage becomes necessary.

Records also show that the Atlantic is loading a ship about every three days, with two ships tied up at their docks all the time.

The road from the Atlantic company plant to the river is nearly completed, shell now being laid the entire distance of 9000 feet from the plant to the docks.

PAVING WORK NEAR FINISH

Completion Entirely Up To Weather, Says Bates

According to Clyde Bates, consulting engineer of Natchez, W. T. & J. H. Bates, the paving program which is being pushed to conclusion by Smith Brothers Construction company will probably be completed here within the next month, provided sufficient sunshine and fair weather prevails.

Completion of the work, he said, depends entirely upon the kind of weather the contractors encounter.

J. O. Herpin, city engineer, said this morning that besides the renovation of North Front, now under way, that work remains to be finished on Sixth and Fifth streets, Dulac avenue, Houston avenue, and that Avenue A and Fifth from Houston to Railroad avenue remain to be paved, too.

HERPIN OPTIMISTIC ON NEW CITY WELL

Expressing considerable faith in the city's new well at Port Neches park, City Engineer J. O. Herpin said this morning that the well will be placed in use as soon as a complete log is engaged at the hole "complete boring it."

Herpin said the well looks good, and contains considerably less salt than any other drilled at Port Neches park.

Taxes On Street Rentals Sought

ATTORNEYS TO CONFER

K. C. S. Recheck To Be Held Up Pending Hearings

Legal action may be invoked in efforts to collect taxes against the Port Arthur Traction company on easement or street rental charges according to Tax Expert Gallagher, in charge of the revaluing of Port Arthur property.

Following a conference this morning with officials of the company, Gallagher stated the question of collection of easement charges against the street railway company was raised.

It is the contention of the traction officials that their franchise does not provide for the payment of easement taxes placed at upwards of $125,000 and it was indicated following this morning's conference that the matter would be left to the legal departments of the city and the street railway.

May Clean Up Tonight.

Final re-checking of the property held in Port Arthur by the Kansas City Southern railroad has been deferred for a few days, until the general public has had a chance to come before the equalization board. At the first conference with the equalization board last week a reduction of the acreage held by the company was affected but the final outcome of their valuation has not yet been established.

Efforts will be made to clean up the business of the equalization board in a night session tonight starting at 7:30 o'clock.

3,000-lb. Ray Tows Fishers For 2 Miles

Towed two miles out into the gulf Wednesday at the rate of 20 knots an hour when a ray fish weighing 3,000 pounds became entangled in the anchor of their small boat, Captain Fred Plummer and Joe Corbell, Sabine pilots, were saved a wild sea voyage by the pilot tug Florida rushing to overtake them, it was learned here today.

"So powerful was the big ray's pulling after we got a line from our yawl to the tug," Captain Fred Plummer said today. "We tried to land the ray, and even got him up to the top of the water so that we could see what he looked like, but then he let go the small boat's anchor line and disappeared."

Last season several fishing parties off the jetty were towed seaward by ray fish clamping down on their small boat's anchors. At the time it was recommended that fishermen in small boats use small ropes for anchor lines, which could be easily cut in case a ray got tangled up with the anchor.

Spanish Navy Ordered To Barcelona

By United Press.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The Spanish government has ordered a naval squadron to proceed immediately to Barcelona. The Madrid correspondent of Le Temps telegraphed this afternoon.

Closely censored advices from Madrid today indicated a large section of the Spanish army has rebelled, demanding resignation of the government.

Army Blames Government.

The rebellion apparently was caused by two conditions:

1. The dictatorial policy of the government toward the Catalonian separatists, who, at a meeting in Barcelona yesterday, adopted motions insubordinating the king and queen and demanding immediate separation of Catalonia into an independent republic.

2. The military reverses suffered by Spanish forces in Morocco fighting against the Moorish rebels led by Abd El Krim. The army blames the government for the reverses because of its failure to provide sufficient troops, munitions and equipment, despite the pleas of the military commanders.

The movement started shortly after midnight in Barcelona, the seat of the Catalonian movement, when the provincial captain general, Prune De Riveria, declared a state of war, demanded resignation of the cabinet and cut communications.

King Not in Danger.

Advices indicated the movement had spread throughout the country, a majority of the important military garrisons going over to the rebels.

At a public meeting late yesterday, the last remnants of the camp passed from the hands of the government to a group of Houstanians for the sum of $250,000.

The camp was in the neighborhood of 35,000,000 when constructed. Included in the sale were 110

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Possibility of an Italian-Jugo-Slav war within 72 hours was aggravating the chancellors of Europe today while they awaited anxiously for the terms of Belgrade's reply to the ultimatum of Premier Mussolini of Italy, demanding acceptance of Italian thesis for settlement of the Flume controversy by Saturday.

It was understood the Jugo-Slav reply has reached Rome and is being studied by the Italian foreign office.

France in Danger.

The decision of war or peace will depend on latest view of the communique.

France is in the most delicate position of the outside powers, since she has close ties with both the little entente and Italy and is sure to create bitter resentment whichever side she supports. It equally is impossible for Premier Poincare to remain neutral.

RAILFELD FOR DUFF LINE

Wagon Commission To Grant Extension

Knowing that the Interstate Commerce Commission grant the Wagon, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine Railway a certificate of public convenience and necessity, granting them permission to extend their line from Livingston, Texas, to Port Arthur, Texas, the Wagon, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine Railway, has addressed a letter to H. H. Meyer, chairman of the commission, at Washington, D. C., favoring the Duff railroad's extension here.

The letter, a copy of which was sent the News, calls attention to the fact that the Duff railroad would join with this port a portion of the great agricultural center of Texas, giving that section of the country another outlet for the shipper.

The letter follows:

"I am advised that the Wagon, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine Railway company of this state, has filed with you an application for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity authorizing it to construct an extension of its line of railroad from Livingston, Texas, to Beaumont, Texas, and Port Arthur, Texas."

"Since this is a matter of vital importance to a large section of the State of Texas, I trust that an expression of my views with reference to the proposed construction of said line of railroad are not beyond the bounds of propriety."

"My ten years' experience as a member of the Texas Interstate Commerce Commission has made me more or less familiar with the railroad situation in our state and gave me a knowledge of the economic situation surrounding the group of ports in Southern Texas. The Federal Government has expended vast sums of money in the development of Southern Texas ports, and no doubt will make additional appropriations for the development of the ports. However, for these Southern Texas ports to be properly developed, there should be constructed a line of railroad, based on said ports, leading directly back to the center of the great agricultural section of our state, and in my opinion the construction of the Wagon, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine railway from Livingston, Texas, to Beaumont, Texas, and Port Arthur, Texas, will meet the demand. With my knowledge of the state of Texas, I have no doubt but that public convenience and necessity will be served by the construction of said line of railroad."

"With expressions of highest esteem, I am,

"Very truly yours,

"(Signed) EARLE B. MAYFIELD."

Expended in mud and above the hoistings along Fort Worth avenue, a huge boiler hoisted at on a derrick attracted the attention of Fifth street throngs today.

"Some still! Wonder who's it is?" exclaimed one spectator.

Verily, it did look like a still, the crowd agreed, but upon investigation, found it was merely a steam boiler for the new laundry, which is being installed at Fort Worth avenue and Sixth street.

The Beauty of Lamp Light

WHEN you stroll along the street at night, don't you love to see the lamps gleaming in the windows? How colorful the homes appear. How hospitable and inviting!

The lamps in your home give pleasure to others just as they make the rooms cheerful and home-like for you. Take off the lamp shades some time as an experiment, and see how glary the effect.

If your furniture is out of date but well-beloved, cover it over with cretonne slips. Put the simplest of drapes at the window—and get some new lamps. The soft light mellows the whole effect and shortcomings in furniture are overlooked.

This little service in home decoration costs you nothing. You'd have to have the light anyway.

GOOD YEAR Service Station

THE best footing your car can get on rain-swept streets and slippery hills is the gripping All-Weather Tread of a Goodyear Tire. The high, thick, sharp-edged blocks of that famous tread take a slish hold and hang on with a wedgelike action that prevents side-slip or skidding.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend the new Goodyear Weather Tread and back them up with standard Goodyear Service.

DEVER TO WAR ON POOR BEER

Chicago Mayor Says Price Is Too High

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Mayor William Dever, Chicago, today announced war against a "syndicated beer traffic" to save the city from "beer hoarding."

"Beer is being sold illegally in Chicago at $20 to $30 a barrel—and it isn't the best beer either," Dever charged. "In order to carry on the traffic, this money is being distributed among federal and municipal officers and the consumer must pay from 30 to 40 cents a glass for poor beer."

"We have therefore decided that manufacture of beer must be stopped and I am going to see to it that no brewery operates."

Dever's ultimatum followed arrest of Deputy Sheriff Daniel McFall on a charge of murdering Jerry O'Connor in an "inside feed" of rival liquor syndicates.

STORM AND TIDE DESTROY TOWN

Inhabitants Escape Storm in Lower California

MEXICALI, Lower California, Sept. 13.—Terrible storms and a small tidal wave that drove in from the Pacific and caused great damage in Lower California over last week end, may have completely wiped out the entire fishing village of Jose De Cabo, according to wireless news today.

The town's 500 inhabitants are believed to have escaped.

Lower California state government officials were without official word of the reported disaster early today.

An unconfirmed report, picked up by the wireless station here, said that a severe storm swept the entire Lower California coast Saturday and that the village was seriously damaged. Relief, it was said, is being rushed from Mazatlan.

Superstitious fears of the coming eclipse of the sun was declared responsible for the fact that no lives were lost. The natives rushed to nearby hills as soon as the mountainous sea arose, believing this fearsome manifestation of nature was connected with the solar phenomenon.

The charges grew out of the recent flogging of E. T. McDonald, laborer, who was whipped and severely beaten by a band of men.

Four other men were also indicted on charges of whipping and assault with prohibited weapons.

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Rob Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches. If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moore's Emerald Oil is extensively used in hospitals and in factories as first aid to the injured. It is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces lasts a very long time.

Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that soft bunches, goitres, swollen glands and wens are reduced. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Your druggist can supply you.—adv.

GAME LAW IS CONTRADICTORY

Open Season Dates Under Fire

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 13.—A total of 25 hunting license have been issued from the office of the county clerk since August 22. Representative R. E. Quinn has written to state authorities at Austin to find out whether or not a law was passed and improperly indexed in the general laws or a first, second or third special called session, amending the hunting laws. Mr. Quinn declared he had no knowledge of voting for an amendment of that kind. The state fish and game commissioners have printed on the back of the hunting licenses, and published in the papers, that the season would open on November 1, but the federal statute provides that it will open on October 15, which has resulted in a misunderstanding.

YOU AND I

FREE-BATHING
A committee of lawyers, reporting to the American Bar Association, is charged with the task of determining whether or not a million and a half dollars is a fortune.

This shouldn't alarm even an 1890-model mind. For, out of those 1,500,000 dollars, at least 1,450,000 of them don't want to do anything except talk.

Free speech is democracy's safety valve.

WRANGLING

Geothals, army engineer who built the Panama Canal for Uncle Sam, is attacked by a commission and board. He attacks them as inefficient in principle because they have no responsible head and the members can pass the buck to each other.

Geothals prefers one-man responsibility. Lincoln called commissions devices for the purpose of defeating government. Man still is in the individualistic stage.

CHINA

China, famed as a peace-loving nation, now has a standing army of more than a million and a quarter soldiers. However, this is a police force rather than a military organization.

There's one soldier for each 400 Chinese citizens, a job that would be "pie" for Royal Mounted Police or Texas Rangers. But the Chinese soldiers can't maintain order in their country.

Nations are destroyed from within more often than from without, but in every country the people always imagine their great danger is from outsiders.

OLD

The second largest tree in the world, a giant California sequoia, was recently renamed as a memorial to President Harding.

This tree, 32 feet through, and 250 feet tall, is 2000 years old, and still a youngster. There'll be a great national bowl if a lumber company cut it down, and yet we watch without protest the destruction of our forest wealth which was millions of years in preparation, getting the soil ready for the tree.

IN

Sugar now heads the list of our imports from other countries. It has formerly had the leadership. Americans are the champion sugar eaters in the world. The effect on our national health is disastrous. The destruction of teeth and overabundance of digestion. Sugar is a stimulant. It is chemically an alcohol. Plenty of sugar drunks.

DESTROYED

Cotton planters of our country this year lost 750 million dollars on account of the ravages of the boll weevil and drought, estimates E. E. Bartlett, Jr., U. S. president of the N. Y. Cotton Exchange.

The money loss pinches the planters. It hurts. But the real loss is in decreased production of cotton. American, impoverished by the dollar, frequently lose their sense of proportion by trying to measure everything in terms of money instead of quantities. The dollar, you know, usually gives short weight.

GOVERNOR JACK'S AMBITION.

Governor Jack Walton of Oklahoma is holding the center of the stage position. Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma is said to be a bit disturbed. Owen is a conservative democrat. Walton is a farmer-laborer democrat. And the farmers and laborers of Oklahoma swept Jack into the office of governor last year.

Senator Owen is a very wealthy man. He was born in Virginia and he boasts of his Cherokee blood. Senator Owen and Congressman Charles Carter and W. W. Hastings all boast of their Cherokee blood. These Cherokee democrats of Oklahoma are not kindly disposed toward Governor Jack. He is of plebeian political origin.

Senator Owen is proud of his toga. He wishes to wear it another six years. He must go before the people in 1934. Now if Governor Jack retains his grip on the democratic machine and the hearts of the democratic voters Senator Owen is going to retire to private life on the 4th day of March, 1935.

Republicans captured a senator in 1920, the year of the great democratic slump. They sent J. W. Harrell to the senate. Harrell promised the seventeen thousand independent oil operators of Oklahoma that he would place a duty of thirty-five cents a barrel on Mexican crude.

He failed to redeem his pledge. Republican bosses were more powerful than the independent oil operators and they succeeded in keeping Mexican crude on the free list. This is where Harrell lost his rabbit's foot. This is where the titans of the oil industry, republicans to a man, demonstrated their influence and their power in dictating legislation and framing a tariff bill.

But back to Governor Jack. He has a senatorial bee, unless all Oklahomans are liars. He is a desperate player of the game called politics. He knows what he wants and how to get it. There is going to be a campaign worth the while in Oklahoma next year. If Walton retains his grip he will go to the senate. If his grip is broken he will retire to private life at the end of his term as governor of the state known as the step daughter of Texas.

It was early in 1919 that William Jennings Bryan poured holy political oil upon the head of Senator Owen and declared him to be of presidential size. Oklahoma democrats voted for Owen for president on every ballot in 1920 but when James M. Cox became the standard bearer the heart of Owen was sent to the grave and he never murmured thereafter until the year 1923. Then he came out of his trance and whispered it to his friends that he would be a candidate for another term of six years.

There are thousands of Indian voters in Oklahoma. Are they going to throw their votes to the Cherokee aristocrat or to the irrepressible Jack? It is a grand old game. Harrell is a dead one on account of free oil. Who will be sent to the morgue next year?

RANCHMEN COMING BACK.

Texas ranchmen have had their lean years and their fat years. They had their fat years in war time. They had their lean years after the coming of peace. They had drouths, they had fearful slumps in prices, they found themselves overstocked with high priced steers, they found themselves heavily indebted to the money lenders of the country and disaster was the portion of thousands of the live stock raisers of the southwest.

El Paso is the last of the cow towns of the southwest. Former State Senator Richard M. Dudley is the mayor of El Paso. Dudley knows the ranchmen and the ranchmen know Dudley. This blunt pioneer citizen of the southwest predicts that the ranchmen are coming back and he knows whereof he speaks.

"We are having some fine weather out here and for the first time in five years the plains of West Texas and southwest Texas and of Arizona and New Mexico are covered with green," he writes. "Lots of rain has fallen and to my mind the era of return of prosperity to our ranchmen has begun. They have been in bad condition with debts and few cattle but for the first time in five years they have lots of grass and water and you know the ranchmen of the southwest can come back as fast as a rubber ball if you will give them a chance."

An era of high priced meat is here. It has been here for a long time. According to the federal department of agriculture the population of the United States is increasing at such a rate that the importation of American beef will cease in the near future. Great Britain has been a great buyer of American beef for years and these governmental experts say that in the near future Great Britain must look to South American countries for its beef supply.

Cotton has come back with a vengeance, assisted by the drought and the weevil. Corn is in demand at a fancy price. And the swine breeders of the southwest are not cursing the government, calling for relief legislation or threatening to run amuck, politically speaking. Top prices are nearing ten dollars per hundred and this keeps the swine breeders in a happy frame of mind.

If it were possible to pay the wheat grower of the northwest $1.25 a bushel Magnus Johnson would be short lived as an American senator. Just now cotton promises to be the gold crop of the world. With a seam supply and a maximum world demand.

Recent advances from the industrial centers of Japan show that the textile industries were unharmed by quake or fire or water and that the spinners of Japan are facing the future with a grim determination to win.

Japs are fatalists. They are undismayed. They accept that which the gods send and do the best they can. If the Japanese gods are angry, then the destroying elements devastate life and property. If the gods are in a mellow mood they shower their blessings upon their subjects.

Already the Japanese government has appropriated two hundred and fifty million dollars for the relief of the victims of disaster and hordes of Japanese workmen are clearing away the debris of the three fold visitation which swept their country. When a Jap is overwhelmed he digs himself out. He may be hurt but he doesn't whine.

John Bull has another hard luck story. Thousands of tons of German potatoes have been dumped on the English markets, causing a serious loss to English growers. German dumping has forced the price of potatoes down to $27.50 a ton, whereas the growers say they are losing money unless they are able to get thirty dollars a ton. If Magnus Johnson were over there he would insist that it was the province of parliament to fix the price of potatoes. But just now Magnus is looking after the American wheat business.

A Parisian rag picker inherited a fortune and then dropped dead when the glad news was broken. Perhaps he was too old to obtain real satisfaction in the spending of the money. There are men who do not know how to buy joy or place the nimble hand where it will produce the most kicks or thrills.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

DEAR BEE:

I am wondering if anyone of your high-born provincials ever reads the answers to the lovers, or the unhappy married, or whatever you may call those agony columns which seem so silly and utterly futile. At least that is what these columns, with their questions and answers, always has seemed to me until right now.

See, I remember you telling me one day, when I told you I was going to marry Sam, that you did not think I loved him. After he had his trouble with the "bad bone" I was sure I did not. I was so incensed at his doing something against which I had warned him many times. Then, as he seemed, in his blindness, so brave and more splendid than he had ever been in health, a kind of divine pity filled my heart and for a time I really thought it was love.

But I've come to the conclusion now it was partly remorse and partly pity. I thought I had no right to find any more fault with him when he was paying so dearly for his mistake. Sam is a nice chap. He wants to do everything in the world for me, but like many other men, he wants to do it in his own way. He is kind, but he is his kind of kindness, not mine.

Mr. Hamilton is giving him a very good salary and he doesn't want me to work and, Bee, I would go mad if I didn't work. I'm doing very well in this advertising department. I have been able to write one or two stock sales advertisements, which have brought in a great many women customers.

Mr. Hamilton praised me unstintingly and he spoke of me quite frequently, saying, "I am sorry, Mr. Hamilton, that you are saying this to Sally for, thanks to you, I am earning enough to support us both in comfort and I have the same rooted objection that every other American man has, who has any mind about at all about him, to losing my wife work."

Before I could control myself my quick tongue got the best of me and I said, "I've never seen any American man who weren't perfectly willing that their wives should cook over hot stoves, bend over washboards and do the hardest possible work for long hours if they were doing it to make their husbands comfortable and not for the glorious incentive of a good salary."

Sam gave me a look that was murderous and poor Mr. Hamilton looked troubled. With the intention, however, of pouring oil on the troubled waters, he said, "Now look here, Atherton, you are not going to expect me to side with you and lose one of the best of my writers I have, are you?"

"I don't expect anyone to side with me, not even Sally herself," said Sam, and he went out of the room and slammed the door, just like an angry child.

I looked at Mr. Hamilton and myself, but he only laughed and said, "Never mind, dear, a half-blind man has enough to contend with."

There, I've said more than I had intended, and I say more still I am going to close.

SALLY.

A Thought for Today

Let another man praise thee, and out thine own mouth: a stranger, and not thine own lips.—Prov. 27:2.

Most of our merit, when noble and glorious deeds are ready to acknowledge, are yet not to be rendered when they want their own action.

Assurance.

THE TROOPER

THE TROOPER

THE YELLOW SEVEN RUN TO EARTH

BY EDWARD SHELLEY. ILLUSTRATED BY SAM BOWENFIELD.

ONEA SERVICE INC. (1934).

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Chai-Hung is leader of The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Peter Pennington, who is called by the government to apprehend Chai-Hung, is engaged to be married to Monica Vines, a wealthy girl. Captain John Hewitt is Commissioner of Police at Jossington, Texas. North Hornes, Pennington leads an expedition to capture the bandit leader. Peter is ably assisted by his chief-of-staff, Rabat-Phil, who because of a personal grievance hates Chai-Hung bitterly.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

A bullet drilled a hole in his top and Dawson laughed aloud. A knot of fanatics—running short on ammunition—balled their approach with a shower of rocks. Dawson dispatched the first man with his pistol and the remainder took to their heels to fall upon the bayonets of the last of Chai's party. There followed a period of breathless, hand-to-hand fighting and presently he awoke to the sudden realization that they were on level ground, in fierce pursuit of the last defenders of gradient.

Clay's voice belated after him. "Dawson! Dawson, come back here! We've gained our objective and it won't pay us to go farther." The D. O. retired with evident reluctance.

He found Clay with his back against a rock, landing up his hand with stripes from his handkerchief. "Hit?"

"Nothing to speak of. You are all right?"

Dawson felt himself all over. "Not even a blight! It's very disappointing. When I get back to my little log-hut in the trees, nobody'll believe I took part in the scrap at all."

Clay was sucking at the stem of an empty briar.

"I'll give you a certificate to that effect. I think we've every reason to put ourselves in the dark. We're in occupation of the entire ridge, plenty of cover and a clear view of Chai-Hung's headquarters." He knew the improvised bandage and drew it out with his teeth. "The Yellow Seven are holed up on the plateau. Pennington is advancing on our extreme right. Rabat-Phil is in charge of the left flank. Behind the earthworks they've shelled up there's a stream of 500 feet."

Dawson borrowed Clay's binoculars and in the first ray of light of approaching dawn focused them on a broad, squat pile of rockwork known as a quarter of a mile ahead. A spotlight from the center of this mass and from it swung a yellow flag.

"Better get a stretcher-party to work," he reconsidered suddenly. "I've told my sergeant already."

He glanced back and saw Pennington coming up the slope. His left arm was in a sling and there was a blood-stained strip of plaster across one shoulder.

Pennington dropped to the earth and lay on his stomach. His chin propped in his hands, Dawson, I want you to take over my section. I'm giving up grub for everybody. There will be a quick breakfast after which we embark upon the second part of our program. Clay, your party—go with a further platoon. I'm sending you—will advance a couple of hundred yards and take over Dawson. You'll want to go a bit farther—say three hundred. Rabat-Phil will do the same. At seven I'm going to open up with the fifteen pounders."

"The Tunn Pennington?"

The man with the Chinese eyes took the message from his hand, Dawson, watching him curiously as the color vanished from his cheeks. The sat, stock still, staring at the man as if unable to comprehend its meaning.

"What is it?" demanded Clay.

Pennington started at his own question. "It's from Hewitt," he said. "He hasn't been able to get away. But he's got to join us before it's all over. Monica disappeared two days ago. She was going to the governor's house at Sandakan—and didn't turn up."

"That's Mrs. Vines—Pennington's fiancée," explained Dawson. "This is terrible. Pen, you don't think Chai-Hung has had anything to do with this?"

Pennington rose to his feet. "I don't know what to think. It's knocked me pretty hard."

"What are you going to do?"

"Care-on," said Pennington with a touch of bitterness.

Dawson flattened down against the rock, barely a hundred paces from the main objective, saw the seventh pound send a wall toppling drunkenly inward.

"Good man!" he murmured exultantly, then groined for his rifle. Four more rounds followed in quicker succession—and the D. O. rubbed his fat hands, together. Chai-Hung's hair was crumpling from its very foundation. One main wall of enormous boulders stood alone behind a heap of ruins and he guessed that this remaining rampart sheltered all that was left of the bandits' followers. To all intents and purposes the day was won.

And then, as he brought his gaze back to the wall, he saw a figure standing very erect on its summit: a man of enormous proportions in a white drill tunic and baggy silk trousers. He did not need the assistance of binoculars to recognize Chai-Hung.

Within a matter of seconds, a second form had joined him there, pushed from below with unseen hands. In a flash there dawned upon him the meaning of that maneuver of the early hours, the band that had broken through carrying something broken from a pitfall.

The action ended.

"For God's sake stop that damned lie said to have been defective."

MARVELS

BY BECKTON BRADLEY

Physicists rained about the world.

And now, he said, a lot of it. But all the facts that he unfolded. Concerned a tiny spot on the globe. Today when travel's what we seek. We take a car and ride about. And ever more ground in a week. Than all I've seen had about.

Physicists told convincingly.

Of monstrous gods and goddesses. Yet wonders that we daily see. Would fill a dozen Odysseys. The simple-minded Greek folk. With never thought of concealing. Believed each word I've spoke. About his long adventuring.

Yet had he told of radio.

Which unobtrudes through space to us. Or streams, or aeroplanes—which grow. So quickly commonplace to us. The Greeks would probably have said: "We can't believe those airy tales! The old man's telling fairy tales!"

Or else he's telling fairy tales!"

In brief, a stranger world as view.

And travel far and wide about. Than that which old I've known. Or claimed he knew, and lied about! (Copyright, 1934, NEA Service, Inc.)

LATE FOR WEDDING.

BROTHER TAKES BRIDE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12.—Miss Julia Milardo of Empire, Ohio, was married as scheduled, even though the intended groom, Albert Gano, failed to keep his date.

When the hour for the ceremony arrived, Albert didn't appear. Then Albert's brother, Michael, whispered to the bride-to-be. She nodded assent. After formalities Michael led the 19-year-old girl before the Rev. W. J. Horak, pastor of the St. Martin's Catholic church, and the wedding went on.

"I don't care what Alth says or does," said the bride declared happily today. "He better satisfied the way it is."

"I love Julia better than he does," Michael added. "I don't know where he is or why he didn't appear, but he's sure out of luck if he comes now."

REPAIR BRIDGE WHILE

CITIZENS ARE ASLEEP

COLORADO, Texas, Sept. 12.—

Engineers and autoists who crossed over the Long Creek detour bridge near here were surprised to find the structure several feet lower this morning when they drove to town and this was explained to them.

Thursday night chamber of commerce officials met and decided the bridge must be fixed at once, and they proceeded through Dr. A. P. Coleman, president, to let a contract for the work, order material and get on the job.

Friday night, while the countryside slept, workmen took out old timbers, lowered the approach to the bridge and made it possible without hindrance to traffic.

TEXAS OFFICER TRAPS

WOMAN ROBBING PANTS

CORPUS, Texas, Sept. 13.—

A well dressed young woman selected the wrong room to rob when she entered the home of Deputy Sheriff E. W. Warnell and staged a systematic search of the officer's trousers, which were near his bed. The officer awoke.

The stranger attempted to escape but the sheriff quickly had her handcuffed to the bedpost, and a little later had her lodged in the county jail, facing a charge of burglary.

Your Health

by Dr. C. C. Robinson

TREATMENT OF CUTS

I don't neglect a cut, no matter how trifling. Infection frequently has resulted in loss of a finger or toe. Blood poisoning may result in weeks of sickness. The whole system may feel the effects of careless treatment.

"Clean cuts" are made by a sharp blade passing through the cuticle, or outer skin, into the vascular, or true skin. If only the capillaries or small veins are injured, the bleeding soon stops. If deeper, an artery may be severed or muscles, tendons and ligaments injured.

If the instrument is dull, laceration, a jagged wound, may result. Such must be carefully treated to remove dirt or foreign matter. The flesh and cuticle must be bound together to avoid sepsis.

In slight cuts, wash the wound with pure water, boiled if possible. Peroxide of hydrogen is also excellent. When properly cleaned, apply iodine and alcohol in equal parts (tincture of iodine) with a small brush or swab of absorbent cotton. Put a piece of sterilized gauze or clean white cotton over the wound and bandage.

In deeper cuts, where an artery has been injured, it may be necessary to use a ligature to tie off the ends of the severed artery. In severe cases a tourniquet may be needed to prevent bleeding to death. In such a case, bind the wound between the cut and the body with a small rope, a strip of cotton or rubber bands. Insert a stick under the binder, and twist until the bleeding stops.

Methodists Plan

Big Sanitarium

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 12.—

Southern Methodists will build one where in the southwest a $200,000 sanitarium for the treatment of tuberculosis patients. After the initial investment, plans call for ultimate extension of the hospital to additional expenditure of $1,000,000.

Dr. C. C. Jarrell, chairman of the sanitarium building committee, this week completed a tour of inspection at which he visited proposed sites.

The Southern Methodist general conference authorized the establishment of the southwestern sanitarium at its last meeting.

Roswell, N. M., has offered a site and $100,000 bonus. El Paso is another contender for the location.

Dr. Jarrell, after visiting Roswell, came to El Paso and looked over the situation here. He has been offered a free site at El Paso, with promise of a bonus if a home should be the deciding factor in the committee's decision.

OLD SETTLERS END

GATESVILLE, Texas, Sept. 12.—

The judges have completed the awards and filed same with the officers of the fair. President R. L. Sams has said the list would not be given out until complete record is made.

GIVES PAGEANT

ALVA, Sept. 13.—North-

thwestern children dropped back thirty years today to live again in pageant for the first time, September 13-14, the opening of the "Cowboy" pageant for the benefit of the white man.

Thirty years ago today hundreds of homesteaders crowded four miles along the Northern Kansas border, waited impatiently the signal that would set them carrying northward to stake out new homes on the virgin prairie lands, today a part of the granary of the northwest.

Afloat, on horseback, in light wagons behind a team of wiry mustangs and behind lumbering oxen, the invasion of the Cherokee nation began with a homestead as a prize with its "most shanty," slim ransons and butchering of the frontier in prospect.

"Cowboys," during individuals who slipped in the restricted area in ahead of the formal opening and were disqualified, watched the dash from the starting line with mingled emotions.

Others who were more fortunate in evading the soldiers emerged in advance of the invading horde, staked their claim and watched the tide flow by.

Throughout the week here, at Enid and other points throughout the "strip" fairs, pageants and rodeos will depict the development of the state and give the present generation a brief glance into the past—and it was 30 years ago.

Governor Walton will take part in the celebration at Enid tomorrow, which has been designated "Governor's Day."

Buried in Well, He's Not Excited

GALESBURG, Ill., Sept. 13.—Having a well cave in on him and being buried several hours under 40 feet of earth is all part of a day's work for "Cane" Ross.

When that happened to him the other day the whole countryside—everyone except Ross, that is—got all excited about it. Rescuers came so thick and fast they nearly got in one another's way. There was a general disposition toward hysteria.

Someone thought of running a pipe down to give Ross air. After all, set to work digging. As hour after hour passed they finally abandoned hope of finding anything except his body.

Instead, he was alive and fairly well satisfied, although a little soiled, when dug out.

HUSBAND UNWILLING TO KISS AND MAKE UP

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 13.—"You folks should kiss and make up," remarked Judge McDaniel when Timothee Louis McMillan and Clara McMillan appeared before him in temporary alimony proceedings pending a trial of the wife's suit for divorce.

Both expressed a willingness to do whatever was fair and just and led the court to believe their differences were not as serious as they had thought them to be. McMillan, however, shook his head vigorously at the court's suggestion.

Mrs. McMillan charged, one of her allegations being that her husband called to their daughter: "Go get a hammer. Your mother is Clara Phillips."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Government officials are accustomed to getting all sorts of letters, but the prize letter was received by Senator Cameron, who got one from an Indian chief signed by a thumb print.

That signature has been adopted by the government in its dealings with Indians who cannot write or print the English language. The Indian chief came from Acheche, head of the Apaches, protesting against the use of the Apache's rights preserve for a school for Navajo children.

Try These Tests on Baby!

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—First thing you know they'll be trying Edison's questionnaire on the babies!

Simple mentality tests, practiced on infants from six to fifteen months old, show that a normal child should be able to do the following:

Listen to a watch ticking at six months.

Take a few swallows out of a cup held to its lips, at seven months.

Pick up a piece of sugar or a crumb, using the forefinger and thumb, at nine months.

Tap a bell to hear the ring at twelve months and put a cork in a bottle at fifteen months.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union of Evanston says so. The local chapter has made public a report of Dr. Bird S. Baldwin, director of the child welfare research station at Iowa State University, which describes mental tests for babies and children.

"When is a child old enough to do things for itself?" asks Doctor Baldwin. "Can a baby of 3 years take off and put on its own wraps? Can it carry its bottle full of milk and wash and empty the bottle, put away its toys, set a phonograph and play accurately with other children in short, can it, within its own little world, do things itself?"

"Children at the parental laboratory earn. In the friendly, interesting environment of the school, the children become confident, active little personalities, free from the fears of restraint which have led psychologists to say that young children are not sociable beings."

"Tests have been constructed for measuring good citizenship. This is the day of intelligent tests. Mental measurements in being used more and more widely in solving the problems of the school, the court and the factory, but character measurement has been neglected."

Physically, a person may be highly intelligent and still be a useless or even a dangerous entity, while a person of only average intelligence may be a valuable citizen because moved by social enthusiasm and altruism. The problem in which the research station is interested is how to develop altruism and good citizenship in childhood."

WAR MOTHER TO SAIL FOR BRITAIN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 13.—Nancy Jordan, English girl mother who came to Kansas City following the war with her baby, Frances, to look for her home with the former wife of the man who she said was the father of the child, planned today to return to England.

"I will sail in a few days," she said.

When Miss Jordan arrived in New York with her baby following the war, immigration officials objected to her coming into the country.

Mrs. Warren, who shortly before had obtained a divorce from her husband, pleaded to be allowed to assume charge of the mother and baby. She had not mentioned Miss Jordan in her petition for divorce.

"I lived with Mrs. Warren only a week," Miss Jordan said. "She had only a small apartment and I was forced to find other quarters. Since then I have supported the baby and my life. For a time Warren gave me money, but he stopped."

"I was working in a department store in London when I first met him. He was in England with the American army. He proposed to marry me if I came to the United States."

Mr. Armstrong was at home alone at the time and at midnight was awakened by the flames entering his bedroom. He escaped through a window. Insurance was carried.

Webb Co. drouth of 6 months is broken

LAREDO, Texas, Sept. 13.—The drouth of six months in Webb county is broken by rains which fell over ranches and oil fields from Mirador City south to the "navajo" fields. Drillers are provided sufficient water with which to resume operations on wells where work has been suspended on account of the water supply being exhausted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Government officials are accustomed to getting all sorts of letters, but the prize letter was received by Senator Cameron, who got one from an Indian chief signed by a thumb print.

That signature has been adopted by the government in its dealings with Indians who cannot write or print the English language. The Indian chief came from Acheche, head of the Apaches, protesting against the use of the Apache's rights preserve for a school for Navajo children.

Pirate Football Squad Holds Conference at 7:30 Tonight

Pleasure Pier Scene Of Gridiron Meeting To Reorganize Team

Rats Watson Calls Conference; All Local Material Urged to Attend; Club Negotiates For Game Sunday; Many Old Stars Here

By BILL ARCHER.

WITH negotiations still under way for a game on Lakeshore Park Sunday afternoon, the Port Arthur Pirates football club will be re-organized at a meeting of gridiron fans and players to be held at Pleasure Pier tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The conference has been called by Rats Watson, famous southern football star who last season created a sensation with the Toledo Maroons of the National Football Association. Every player in Port Arthur interested in the reorganization of the Pirates—the football club that put this city on the map of sports for several seasons—and every prospective candidate is urged to attend the meeting.

Watson declared recently that "the team plays no favorites, players will be chosen on their merits, and if you play football, you have as good a chance as anyone to win a position."

Numerous of the players who held posts of duty in days gone by are still in Port Arthur. The list includes Sandefur, Lee, Elam, Peyeto, Watson, Kelly, Robinson, Prufack, LeBlanc, Pettman and others. During recent months there has also been numerous college stars and high school players of note who have come to Port Arthur to make their home here, it is pointed out, and it is the hope of those who have played with the Pirates before that these players will turn out at the conference this evening to get lined up for coming events.

The problem of arranging games, a tentative schedule and numerous other matters of importance will probably be discussed at the conference, while it is likely, if the game for Sunday is concluded, that a preliminary field to oppose the invaders will be chosen.

Watson has been negotiating with a local club from the Houston City Football League, hoping to have some definite reply early. No announcement as to the progress of his negotiations has been made.

It is understood that if the Pirates club "goes over" here this season that Watson will remain in Port Arthur to direct the team. Otherwise, he will in all probability return to the local scene to play on the Ohio squad with which he gained additional fame last season.

The prospects are good for a big season in this section. The Pirates will probably have a large field from which to draw games, and Port Arthur followers of the grid will be treated to some rare sport if to night's conference results successful.

Yankee Owners Admit Coyly They're Ready To Be Called Bosses

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—With rather coy and bashful smiles, the owners of the New York Yankees admitted today that they were willing to be called the bosses of the 1934 American League champions.

No official act of prominent citizens was attempted, but Ed Barrow, the business manager of the club, admitted that he knew of several pointers to the fact that they were willing to be called the bosses of the 1934 world's series.

Cleveland has twenty-six more games to play and the Indians can even the pennant if they win the 26—if the Yanks win only ten of their remaining 21 games.

EIGHT TENNIS SHARKS ARE LEFT IN RACE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Eight leading racquet players will battle in the fourth round of the United States tennis tournament for the championship of the United States this afternoon.

Tilden, defends his title against Manuel Alonzo, Spain, at 3 o'clock, and R. Norris Williams, Philadelphia, plays R. C. Norton, South America, at 4 o'clock.

Batty weather this morning greeted the tennis fans.

THOUSANDS TO WITNESS FIGHT

Firpo Banqueted as He Enters Gotham

By MENNY L. PARKER.
NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—More than a million and a half dollars worth of customers will see Jack Dempsey and Luis Angel Firpo do battle tomorrow night.

Latest estimates from the office of Texas Richard set the prospective receipts at about $1,500,000 and the attendance at 100,000.

Such tremendous interest has developed in the contest between the "Fighting" Dempsey and the "Night" Firpo that the attendance will be limited only by the restricted accommodations at the ball park and the unofficial receipts will be bounded only by what the fans will stand for in the way of extortion from the ticket scalpers.

Estimates today after a canvass of the ticket broker offices and the stairways from which the illegal scalpers work, set the sum which New York and outside points will pay for the fight at close to two millions dollars.

Tickets from the $5.50 variety up to the top at $75.00 have fallen into the hands of the speculators. The choice seats in the first eight rows are bringing in five times their value.

Detectors from the district attorney's office were investigating the speculators today and were trying to run down members of the counterfeiting gang that have put bogus tickets on the market.

Tex Rickard denied indignantly that there was any scandal attached to the sale of the tickets.

"It is impossible to stop speculation for such a big bout and we felt fortunate that we had been able to reduce it to the very minimum this time," Rickard said.

Some $15 and $20 seats were still available at the box office this morning and a few top price seats in the back rows. Rickard said he felt that he would go to the grounds tomorrow night with a "solid out house."

Firpo was installed under an effective guard of constables at a five-story drive apartment today. He arrived last night from Atlantic City and was hustled out of a big crowd of latins that had gathered to greet him.

The South American was to establish a new precedent for a day before the battle by attending a banquet and love feast to be given in honor today by the Spanish society of New York. The program called for the donation to him, in addition to large quantities of native food, of pieces of silver, shoes of horses, pieces of clover and other good things by which it is hoped he can trample over Dempsey.

Firpo's plans were not announced for the day, but it was learned that he might do a little work on the bull path in Central park and loosen up at the gymnasium in Madison square garden.

The champion was not due here until tomorrow.

Fastest Drivers in Dirt Track Game Will Appear In Sunday Auto Classic

WITH a heavy of speedy drivers lined up for Sunday's auto classic, Manager C. P. Broussard, who dropped down to the Port City yesterday to look over the prospects, is predicting one of the snappiest occasions on record.

"It will be a great day at the East Texas Speedway," Broussard asserted, "and there is likely to result a tumbling down of track records for this section such as we have never seen before."

Arrangements have been completed with the drivers, he said, and this trip they are to receive half the gate receipts after Uncle Sammy has been paid his portion. The new arrangement with the East Texas speed drivers is believed to be the best track officials have ever entered into, and will result in bringing to this section the classiest contestants that ever dirt track driving.

Four speedy contests are carded for Sunday's classic. Manager Broussard announced. They include the following:

FIRST RACE: 12-mile free-for-all. Twenty-five per cent of drivers' purse.

SECOND RACE: 12-mile free-for-all. Twenty-five per cent of drivers' purse.

THIRD RACE: 10-mile event for local stock cars, owners driving. Fifteen per cent of drivers' purse.

FOURTH RACE: 18-mile free-for-all (main event), winners to divide 25 per cent of drivers' purse.

Each race, Manager Broussard declared, will be divided in the following manner:

Sixty per cent for first place; 25 per cent for second and 15 per cent for third.

A crowd of sporting fans in Beaumont, it was learned here this morning, are planning on purchasing the famous Hudson driven by Glenn Broad, who recently quit the professional role, retiring from the game. It is probable that the Hudson may be on the track Sunday, and that a local boy may be chosen to drive it.

The skill of the Hudson is famed far and wide over Texas, it has won numerous events, and with a good fast follow at the helm, if it appears here Sunday, there is little doubt but that it will give "everybody a run."

Among the other fast cars which will be seen in action again are the Galveston Studebaker which this trip will be driven by "Wild Bill" Wade of New Orleans. Wade has never appeared on the East Texas Speedway before, and his ability as far as local fans have any knowledge remains to be proven. For the information of random, however, "Wild Bill" lives up to his name—so the drivers who have witnessed his work are anticipating most any unusual turn-out of him.

The Orange Racing company's Merryweather, with Jimmy Stokes at the wheel, will also participate in the classic, while the Beaumont Durant Special will probably be driven by Roy Huston of this city. Huston did big things with the Durant, which he helped construct, in Houston recently, and he is expected to cut bigger capers here Sunday.

The gates will be open early, Manager Broussard announced, and a good crowd is expected to turn out. Fair weather has put the track in great condition—all it wants is the starting gun.

GOODBRED COPS TILT

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 13.—Tiny Goodbred turned in an excellent pitched game for the Cats and they defeated Galveston 4 to 2. Skipper Jake Cox, advertised he would leave Tiny in the box no matter how many runs were made off him and that he would serve coffee to the fans at 7 o'clock. Goodbred handed back an hour and forty minutes as the time was 1:20. Kraft hit his thirty-first home run one shy of his first year's mark.

Ladies Tournament To Be Held Later

By TAB.

Swish! Across a fast clay court a tennis ball sped through the air. Little forms dashed to the net, then—

"Ceprush!"

And the ball shot back to the other side of the court.

That was a scene at the Country club yesterday. No, the names of the principals participating in the clash are withheld—for more than one reason, but principally because they are a couple of tennis sharks, and they were out yesterday trying their luck in preparation for the City Tennis tournament which opens Saturday.

"That looks as if W. P. McFarland's cup is coming my way," one of the contestants at practice declared, as he mopped a somewhat favored brow following a close set he had just tucked under his belt.

"See as, fellow don't forget we were only practicing—wait 'till I turn loose on you in the real tournament!" the other remarked, and the argument was still on in full force as the two players, arm in arm, strolled from the field.

And that is just what Jack Neely, professional under whose supervision the tournament will be held, is expecting when the clash opens—lots of argument, with tennis racquet.

The indications are the best in the world for that. With a total of 25 entries on the young men's list for the singles meet, and with the cream of Port Arthur's amateurs listed in that squad, nothing but a tennis battle royal can result. Here's the list again, look 'em over and see if your name is left off! If it is, notify the News today—tomorrow will be too late.

Despondency Slough Overtakes Argentine As Pug Breaks Camp

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13.—Luis Firpo who Friday night goes up against Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight title, has fallen into the gloomy, uncommunicative mood that characterizes the Argentine before his important battles.

Firpo, watching his handless break camp for the trip up to New York, wasn't saying a word. There was nothing to indicate he was worried about the coming fight but Luis had dropped all the recent joviality which he had put on for the experts who have been looking him over and was just his own dour self.

The followers of the "wild bull" consider him more or less psychotic and believe he is sinking into a sort of trance from which he will emerge with the information that he is certain to win. The South American contingent believes he will.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

"I mustn't make a hole," he kept saying.

Nancy and Nick stayed with Mister Gallop in his rocky cave when they were traveling around with him on their points.

Each of them had a nice soft bed made out of smelly pine needles and covered by soft Indian blankets.

At night when Snow and Blackie and Echo, the three ponies, were out eating sweet grass, and the leaves of mountain daisies, which they dearly loved, their little master and mistress and the wee fairyman were dreaming fine dreams of new adventures.

But one night, while they were sound asleep and dreaming dreams by the yard, something more real was happening.

Tippy Trade Mouse peeped in. The cave was as dark as a fruit cellar because the moonlight and starlight couldn't look in, but Tippy Trade Mouse's eyes were just made for the dark and he could see everything.

He sniffed at Mister Gallop's lasso and his high cowboy boots, and he sniffed at Nancy's clothes laid in a neat pile over a chair back, and he sniffed at the magic shoes standing in a neat row under the bed.

Then he came to Nick's clothes laid in a pile at the foot of his bed ready to jump into in the morning.

Tippy Trade Mouse jumped up and sniffed at Nick's clothes. "Ah, ha!" he said, winking his bright little eyes. "Here's the very thing I've been wanting!" And he took Nick's shirt in his teeth and dragged it out into the moonlight.

Then he set to work and chewed and chewed and chewed. "I mustn't make a hole!" he kept saying. "That wouldn't be nice of me at all! I mustn't make a hole. I'll have to be very careful."

After while he finished what he was doing and dragged the shirt back again.

Then he went away, carrying something in his mouth.

And by and by he came back carrying something else in his mouth and laid it in the shirt.

This he did six times. Then he left for good.

"Oh, look!" cried Nick when he went to put his shirt on next morning. "Somebody's cut all the buttons off my shirt and left six little stipes instead!"

"It's Tippy Trade Mouse, no sure as anything," said Mister Gallop. "He is always trading something for something else, and nobody knows what he wants it for."

DOVE SEASON
LAW IS TESTED

Special Law in Texas Receives Knockout

SHERMAN, Texas, Sept. 13.—The special law prohibiting shooting doves in Grayson and Collin counties for two years, passed by the last legislature, was knocked out in court here in so far as Grayson county is concerned.

Fritz Hays of Denison took the constable with him this morning and killed several doves, submitted to arrest, and was brought here for trial. Judge R. M. Carter upheld the plea of Hays' attorneys, W. J. Smith and J. P. Cox, Jr., that the law was null and void, because the constitutional requirement that "notice by publication be given by the legislature before passing special laws, had not been carried out. This contention was upheld by testimony given by C. A. Barker, representative from Grayson county, who was instrumental in securing the passage of the law. It also was pointed out that the law does not protect a penalty for its violation.
